

WRITING & AI LITERACY CENTER

The Writing & AI Literacy Center offers free assistance with academic, creative, and professional writing for any course or project. You'll find the Writing & AI (Artificial Intelligence) Literacy Center integrated into the Learning Commons spaces at CWI, alongside the Library and Tutoring Services. All Learning Commons services are free to students, faculty, and staff.

Whether you're working on a paper, learning how to use generative artificial intelligence (AI) tools, or building English language skills, consultants help students:

- Write confidently for any class assignment and strengthen writing skills for all contexts.
- Sharpen critical thinking and reasoning skills through sharing feedback and learning revision strategies.
- Build AI literacy through conversations, resources, and hands-on guidance with using AI tools safely, ethically, and smartly.
- Practice and develop fundamental English language learning skills.

Students can connect with Writing and AI Literacy Center services through a variety of options:

- In-person: Schedule a session with a consultant to meet at one of our campus locations. Walk-ins are also welcome.
- Online/Remote: Meet virtually through our scheduling platform by accessing the Writing and AI Literacy Center website.
- Email Submission: Send your writing to receive written feedback through ACES, the Writing and AI Literacy Center's email service.

For more information, to view hours and locations, and to connect with a writing consultant, please visit the Writing and AI Literacy Center webpage or email writing@cwi.edu.
